Description of Presentation

Title of Presentation: Challenging Resuscitation Cases!
Description of Presentation: Responding to resuscitation is always a bit challenging. We have algorithms that help guide us during resuscitation; however the patient has not read the book and does not always present or respond the way they are supposed to. This class will incorporate hands on skills with critical thinking skills when we have to think beyond the basic algorithm. Actual case scenarios will be presented and worked in a hands on session

Objectives: 1) The participant will be able to incorporate critical thinking skills into their treatment plan.
2) The participant will be able to develop a treatment plan for compromised patients.
3) The participant will be able to identify causes of atypical arrest patients.

Target audience: ALS / BLS

Time requirement: 4 hours

Presented at Prior Conference : Yes

Teaching Method: Lecture / skills / group activity
